

TWO-CAR CRASH SCENE—This was the scene shortly after a head-on auto collision early Saturday morning about four miles northwest of Stroudsburg on Route 611. A man and a woman were fatally injured and another man was listed in "guarded" condition at Monroe County General Hospital as result of the accident. A third fatality over the weekend was a young housewife who was a passenger in a car that crashed into a tree. See details in story below.

In Monroe County Over Weekend

Three Die In Two Accidents

DEATH rode the highways in Monroe County over the weekend when three persons died as a result of two separate accidents.

Six persons also were injured in the crashes with two still hospitalized in Monroe County General Hospital.

Dead are:
Mrs. Anna Evans, 48, of 878 White St., Stroudsburg; Llewellyn F. Andre, 49, Stroudsburg RD 3; and Mrs. Sharron Mikos, 18, Tobyhanna.

Mrs. Evans and Andre died and John Tanchyn is in "guarded" condition in the hospital as a result of a head-on collision of two cars Friday at 11:55 p.m. about 100 yards north of Tanglewood Inn on Route 611, approximately 3.5 miles north of Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Evans was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident at 12:15 a.m. Saturday by Dr. Edward T. Horn.

Andre died Saturday at 3:55 a.m. in the Monroe County General Hospital.

Mrs. Evans, wife of Roy Evans, was a passenger in the Andre car.

The other car was driven by Tanchyn, 42, of Scranton. He received lacerations of the forehead and chin, contusions and multiple abrasions.

Mrs. Evans died as a result of a fractured skull, Monroe County Coroner Daniel G. Warner said last night. Other injuries received were abrasions and bruises to the body and fracture to both legs and right arm.

Point Of Impact

Andre's injuries were multiple facial fractures and lacerations, concussion, fracture left forearm, left hip and ankle.

Police investigating the accident said yesterday that it was learned that Tanchyn was traveling north and that Andre was traveling south at the time of the accident.

The point of impact was in the extreme southbound lane and that Tanchyn's car crossed the highway in front of Andre's car.

Police estimated damage to the Andre car at $600 and $200 to the Tanchyn vehicle.

Mrs. Evans was the daughter of Horace B. and Flossie M. Starnier Stiff of Stroudsburg.

Surviving, in addition to her parents, are her husband, Roy J. Evans, a daughter, Miss Rachel Evans, both at home; three sons, Robert J. of Milford, Conn.; Gerald L. of Anamokin and David C. of Stroudsburg. Also two sisters, Mrs. Charles DePue of Cresco RD 1; and Mrs. Ruth Werkheiser of Stroudsburg; two brothers, Donald Stiff of Baltimore and Horace

B. Stiff, Jr., of Cresco, RD 1 and five grandchildren.

Mrs. Evans was a member of the Arlington Heights Methodist Church and was a nurses' aide at the Monroe County General Hospital for a number of years.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the Dunkelberger and Westbrook Funeral Home. Interment will be in the Stroudsburg Cemetery with Rev. Richard L. Gilbert officiating.

Friends and relatives may call at the funeral home Monday after 7 p.m.

Funeral Wednesday

Mr. Andre was the son of Mrs. Mame Andre and the late Floyd Andre of Stroudsburg.

Born in Sciota, he was a lifelong resident of the county.

He was employed by the Olympic Reconditioning Co., East Stroudsburg and was a member of the Hamilton Square Lutheran Church, the Stroudsburg Eagles Aerie 1106 and the CLU Club in East Stroudsburg.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Mame Andre of Stroudsburg, his wife, Elizabeth and sons Stephen and Jeffrey all at home.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the Dunkelberger and Westbrook Funeral Home. Rev. A. A. Bohner will officiate. Interment will be in the Mt. Zion Cemetery.

There will be no visitation.

Mrs. Mikos, 18, of Tobyhanna, was killed Saturday night when the car she was riding crashed into a tree about five and a half miles west of Mount Pocono on Legislative Route 4500, Long Pond Road.

Monroe County Coroner Daniel G. Warner said the cause of death was a fractured skull and set the time of death at 11:15 p.m. Saturday.

Others in the car were Pfc. David Francis Young, 18, his wife, Sharron Young, both of Pocono Pines; Joseph Mikos, Tobyhanna, husband of the dead woman, and Norman Pratt, 18, his wife, Dallis Pratt, 16, Pocono Pines.

All were taken to the hospital. Mikos was admitted and the others were treated and released.

A spokesman for the hospital said Mikos was being treated for lacerations and contusions of the face, scalp and right leg. His condition was reported as "good."

Sharon Young was treated for a bruised chest, Dallis Pratt was treated for a laceration over the right eye and bruises, Norman Pratt was treated for a bruise of the right shoulder.

Police investigating the accident reported that Young was operating the car at the time of the accident and that he was traveling west going down a grade and rounding a curve when the car ran off the right side of the road and smashed into a tree.

Wind Causes Car Mishap Near S-burg

WIND BLOWING across Route 191, near Anamokin, caused a foreign-made car to crash into guard rails and throw the driver to the highway Saturday, Stroud Twp. Assistant Chief of Police Lester Rice reported last night.

The driver, Mrs. Norma Newman, Cresco, was taken to the Monroe County General Hospital where she was admitted as a patient. Her children who were passengers were taken to the hospital to be with their mother by Robert Hellmann of Stroud Township.

Rice also reported another accident that occurred over the weekend at the intersection of Route 611 and White Street.

He identified the drivers as Elizabeth Schroeder, 74 Bridge St., Stroudsburg, and Joseph Ehling, 909 White St., Stroudsburg. There were no injuries reported.

Rice said Ehling entered Route 611 and ran into the car operated by Mrs. Schroeder.

Blue Valley Control Center, Wind Gap, reported two accidents late last night with one injury.

The injured was identified as Elva Jean Sauder, 24, Nazareth RD 3, who was admitted to St. Luke's Hospital for treatment of a possible skull fracture and fractured collarbone and ankle.

She lost control of her car and rolled over three times. She was on her way to work at St. Luke's Hospital where she is a registered nurse.

The second accident involved two teenagers and resulted in the complete loss of the car they were riding in. They were not injured.

The mishap occurred Sunday at 7:10 p.m. on the Wind Gap-Cherry Hill Road, about one and a half miles south of Wind Gap.

Doris Wildrick, 17, of East Bangor, the operator, lost control of the car as she attempted to make a left turn in the road. The car rolled over several times and caught on fire.

Riding with her was Elwood Hocker, 18, of Wind Gap RD 1. Both crawled out of the window of the car and summoned help from the Blue Valley Control Center. Wind Gap Fire Company responded and extinguished the fire.

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's schools can make a major contribution in over-all efforts to combat unemployment, according to a report submitted to the Public Instruction Department.

Lack Of Food, Drink Mar Reds' May Day

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union began May Day celebrations Sunday in a buoyant, bumptious mood broken only by the difficulty of getting food and drink.

Scarlet and gold banners in the streets and joyous newspaper headlines boasted of Yuri Gagarin's feat in orbiting the earth in a space ship.

There was no mention of Francis Gary Powers and his U2, downed a year ago Monday at Sverdlovsk and ushering in an explosive new period of international relations.

Premier Khrushchev flew back from a Black Sea vacation to head the list of dignitaries taking their salute from atop the Lenin-Stalin tomb in Red Square at the gigantic parade climaxing the festivities Monday morning.

There was no hint either in the press or among well informed residents that the parade would produce anything spectacular.

There was also no word about the release of Powers from prison or any dramatic new space shot.

But there was an article in Komsomol Pravda saying the Soviets have an astronaut in training for a moon flight. It gave no timetable.

Moscow weather was still cold but green buds were beginning to appear on the trees. Great red banners and posters were set off by huge urns of artificial flowers.

Loud speakers blared popular and patriotic music in the squares and at street corners.

TV cameras, which for the first time will show the festivities directly to western Europe, were set up at strategic locations.

Gagarin's portrait flashed in electric light.

Radio broadcasts made long blasts at the United States for its actions in Cuba and other areas of the globe.

Gagarin himself was hidden away for privacy since so many sightseers and hero worshippers had clustered around his new four-room apartment that he and his family had been unable to move in.

Although the people were full of political confidence, their attention was directed more at getting ready for their holiday party — a tough job this year, the worst since the death of Stalin.

Vodka ran out at noon Saturday. Meat, which had been on sale for a short period in the street market Saturday, disappeared again. There was not even a sausage in the Moscow shops.

There were long lines to buy oranges and lemons at those few stands which had managed to get them.

The food shortages have been blamed on bad weather, the severe winter that killed cattle, and the fact that agriculture production fell well below production norms. There is no evidence of any general food being stockpiled.

Van Zandt Urges 'Might' On Pro-Reds

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Rep. James E. Van Zandt, R-Pa., has called for President Kennedy to "speak out with military might" to keep Communism out of the western hemisphere.

If the United States would demonstrate its military might in the world's trouble spots, the Russians would have no choice but to pull out, Van Zandt told a Republican rally at Johnstown Saturday night.

The congressman from Altoona said he is strongly in favor of Kennedy's stand "not to compromise or negotiate with the Communists in the western hemisphere."

But he urged the President to go even one step further and show U.S. military power to the rest of the world.

"If we must fight, we will fight," he said.

Van Zandt then charged that the Democratic party disregarded the nation's best interests by playing politics last fall in the presidential election.

Good Morning!

Barring Delays Or Mishaps Astronaut Timetable

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The script is already written. On Tuesday, an American space pilot is expected to ride a rocket into space.

Here, barring delays and mishaps, are some of the highlights of his tense timetable to space.

It is 2 a.m., the day of the shot. He gets up, showers, shaves, breakfasts, is checked over by doctors.

It takes 35 minutes to wire him with special instruments that will report to doctors on earth his physical status in space.

Technicians carefully adjust the instruments at four tattooed marks around the space pilot's heart. Then he dons his space suit.

Time minus 145 minutes — He leaves the astronauts' quarters for the 15-minute ride to the waiting rocket.

Time minus 120 minutes — He is given a final briefing.

Time minus 100 minutes — The flight surgeon now reports, "The astronaut is on gentry."

From here he boards the space capsule atop the rocket, is strapped into his seat at the shoulders, hips and knees.

Time minus 75 minutes — His helmet visor is closed. His suit is tested once more for leaks. The space capsule is sealed.

Time minus 55 minutes — The gantry, about 100 feet tall, is rolled back. Now the 83-foot rocket stands alone, a tense human being in its nose.

Time minus 4 minutes — All controls are now in "go" position. Time minus 2 minutes — All communications with the space pilot are now by radio.

Time minus 1 minute — The test conductor now has control of the rocket, the man, the entire shot.

Time minus 35 seconds — The commands come quickly now. The space pilot's voice mixes with the busy voices from the blockhouse. "Periscope okay."

Vent valves are checked, fuel brought up to proper pressure. Then: "Ignition. . . Main stage. . . Lift off."

The rocket engines roar into life, spewing flame. Slowly the rocket rises. Then faster. Inside the space pilot strains against pressure six times as strong as gravity that presses him back in his seat.

Every 30 seconds the space pilot now reports the readings on gauges before him, the stresses he is facing.

Time plus 2 minutes, 15 seconds — The space pilot reports, "Standing by for cutoff."

In seconds the Redstone's engine shuts down. The space pilot makes a few adjustments. Then the Redstone and the capsule separate. The rocket, its job done, falls behind.

Three small rockets at the rear of the capsule push it away from the mother rocket. Now, with the flight just over three minutes old, the space pilot begins to control aspects of his flight, maneuvering the capsule in space.

He begins to feel now the beginning of some 5 minutes of weightlessness.

Time plus 4 minutes—the astronaut is now looking at the earth through his periscope, trying to get his bearings visually and trying to control the attitude of the capsule.

Time plus 6½ minutes — the space capsule begins to take its re-entry attitude, preparing to come back to earth, pitching its blunt end toward the earth.

Time plus 7 minutes — Now the feeling of weightlessness begins to leave as the space capsule begins its descent to earth.

Now the force of gravity begins to increase, and the pilot is again straining as the space capsule drives into the blanket of air around the earth and slows.

Time plus 9½ minutes—A small braking parachute is released. A snorkel is opened at 20,000 feet and the earth's air again enters the space capsule.

Time plus 10 minutes — The main parachute opens, and the capsule jerks, then slowly drifts to a landing in the ocean.

The entire trip might take 15 minutes. It carries the space pilot on a trip 115 miles high and 290 miles long.

Rebels Propose Meeting; U.S. Wary Of Cease-Fire

Officials Are Hopeful; JFK In Top Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Lao-tian rebels' offer to discuss a cease-fire stirred well-qualified private hopes Sunday but no public optimism among administration officials.

Meanwhile, plans went forward for President Kennedy's meeting Monday with the National Security Council — the fourth session for that top strategy group within 10 days and perhaps the critical one in the crisis of Laos.

In a sudden change of plans, Kennedy cut short his weekend rest at his farm near Middleburg, Va., to return to the capital Sunday night. There was no indication whether the Laos situation figured in this.

While diplomats held to a wait-and-see position — at least until Monday — the nation's armed forces appeared to be preparing for any role they may be called on to play in Southeast Asia or elsewhere. But they were doing it in a tight-drawn secrecy equalled only in wartime.

Study Dispatches

The State Department studied with interest news dispatches from Laos which told of a rebel cease-fire offer but said the department had no official word. In the absence of such word, there was no official comment but one official said privately the reported move by Prince Souvanna Phouma "is encouraging — if true."

News dispatches said Souvanna, recognized as premier by the Communist Pathet Lao rebels, offered to meet government representatives in a sort of no-man's-land 35 miles north of Vientiane, administrative capital of Laos.

It was the first time the rebels had offered to meet anywhere outside their own strongholds. It raised a possibility that the cease-fire issue may be pretty well resolved by the time the Security Council meets at the White House late Monday. It will then be early Tuesday in Laos.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk spent much of Sunday at his office conferring with his Far East advisers. It was apparent there was deepening conviction that the present situation could not continue much longer.

It was made known that the United States is consulting with its allies. Presumably it is making clear its fear that complete collapse of the royal government cannot be long delayed if rebel pressure continues and there is no outside help.

The United States, however, did not lay down any hard deadline on a cease-fire.

One Clear Sign

The Pentagon was solidly silent Sunday but there was one clear sign of military preparations on this side of the Pacific. This came in the sudden, 11th hour cancellation of a 6,000-man training mission to Europe.

Troops standing ready to board a fleet of about 300 transoceanic transport planes were returned to their barracks at Ft. Campbell, Ky., at midafternoon Saturday. They were scheduled to begin arriving in Germany Sunday.

Excitement Grips Site

Man-In-Space Shot Set For Tomorrow

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut X — his identity a secret — tapered off in seclusion Sunday, less than 48 hours before making history as the first American to try to penetrate space.

Expectancy and excitement gripped the nearby resort town of Cocoa Beach where some 450 U.S. and foreign newsmen concentrated for the man-in-space launch, expected shortly after dawn about everybody had his own hunch as to which of the three "finalists" among the U.S. astronauts would step out of hangar "S" on Tuesday, revealed for the first time as the first Yank to ride a rocket-boosted capsule into near space.

Many seemed to be betting on Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., a green-eyed, red-haired Marine from New Concord, Ohio, At 39, he is the oldest of the group.

But there were plenty of backers for Navy Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr., 37, of East Derry, N.H., and Air Force Capt. Virgil L. Grissom, 35, of Mitchell Ind.

Eliminate Grissom

Some "guessers" eliminated Grissom after he was seen eating in a Cocoa Beach restaurant Saturday night. The astronauts in the final days before launch are supposed to eat carefully-controlled diet served in the spaceman "ready room" at the Cape.

On the flat, virtually treeless expanse of this missile test center, the Redstone ballistic missile and the 3,000-pound cone-shaped space capsule stood locked in the gantry, a red steel tower which will be rolled away shortly before launch.

Final work was being done on the capsule, hidden behind green fiberglass paneling.

Some 3½ miles away, the chosen astronaut and his alternate — who would make the 115-mile-high journey if the principal became ill — rested in their special aqua-tined quarters on the second floor of Hangar "S."

There may be another rehearsal Monday of the impending short range space mission.

Helped It Grow

But to all intents and purposes, they are about as ready as technical ingenuity and foresight and their two years of almost incredibly detailed training could make them.

The scientists and technicians who gave birth to Project Mercury and helped it grow since October 1958 say that every possible safeguard has been provided to assure that the astronaut comes through well and sound.

This 15-minute suborbital flight — which will carry the capsule and space pilot on a steep arc nearly 300 miles out into the Atlantic — does not entail quite as much risk as later orbital flights around the earth.

But there will be risk enough. Built into the system are automatic devices to throw the capsule clear if the rocket should develop a malfunction. These devices could be triggered by the Mercury ground team, which will monitor the astronaut's trip every step of the way with electronic gear.

In their exhaustive preparation for the space mission, the astronauts have been drilled to act themselves, if need be. For example they could fire escape rockets, bring emergency oxygen equipment into play, inflate their silver-colored space suits if there was a loss of pressure in the capsule.

Over the last two years the astronauts have been exposed to the phenomena they will encounter in space.

In a device called a centrifuge, they have withstood forces as much as 16 times that of gravity. During his short range trip into near space, the astronaut will absorb shocks equal to 11 times gravity when his heat-shielded capsule re-enters the atmosphere; a lesser amount after rocket blastoff.

One of the few space phenomena that could not be simulated on the ground was weightlessness. The astronauts got only a taste of this while riding in high flying, very fast aircraft.

Contact With Rebel Regime Is Due Today

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The rebel regime proposed Sunday a meeting of military leaders on the front north of this capital. This raised hopes here for a cease-fire in Laos.

But strong enemy forces struck at Ban Kuan, last large town only 25 miles north of here, Western observers said the sobering question remained whether a cease-fire formula could be worked out between the government and the pro-Communist rebels.

The answer may come Monday when a government officer is scheduled to go out again under a white flag in an attempt to contact the Pathet Lao rebels in the area near Vang Khy and get cease-fire talks started. He got no response when he went out on a similar mission Saturday.

But neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma, recognized by the Communist bloc as premier of Laos, announced Sunday he would agree to a military meeting before next Wednesday at Ban Namon, about 15 miles north of Vang Khy and about 35 miles north of here.

Safe Conduct

Capt. Kong Le, rebel military commander, in another broadcast promised safe conduct to Ban Namon. He proposed each side send a delegation of from five to ten persons "to discuss the fixing of a specific date and hour at which a cease-fire should begin, and to discuss rules governing the cease-fire."

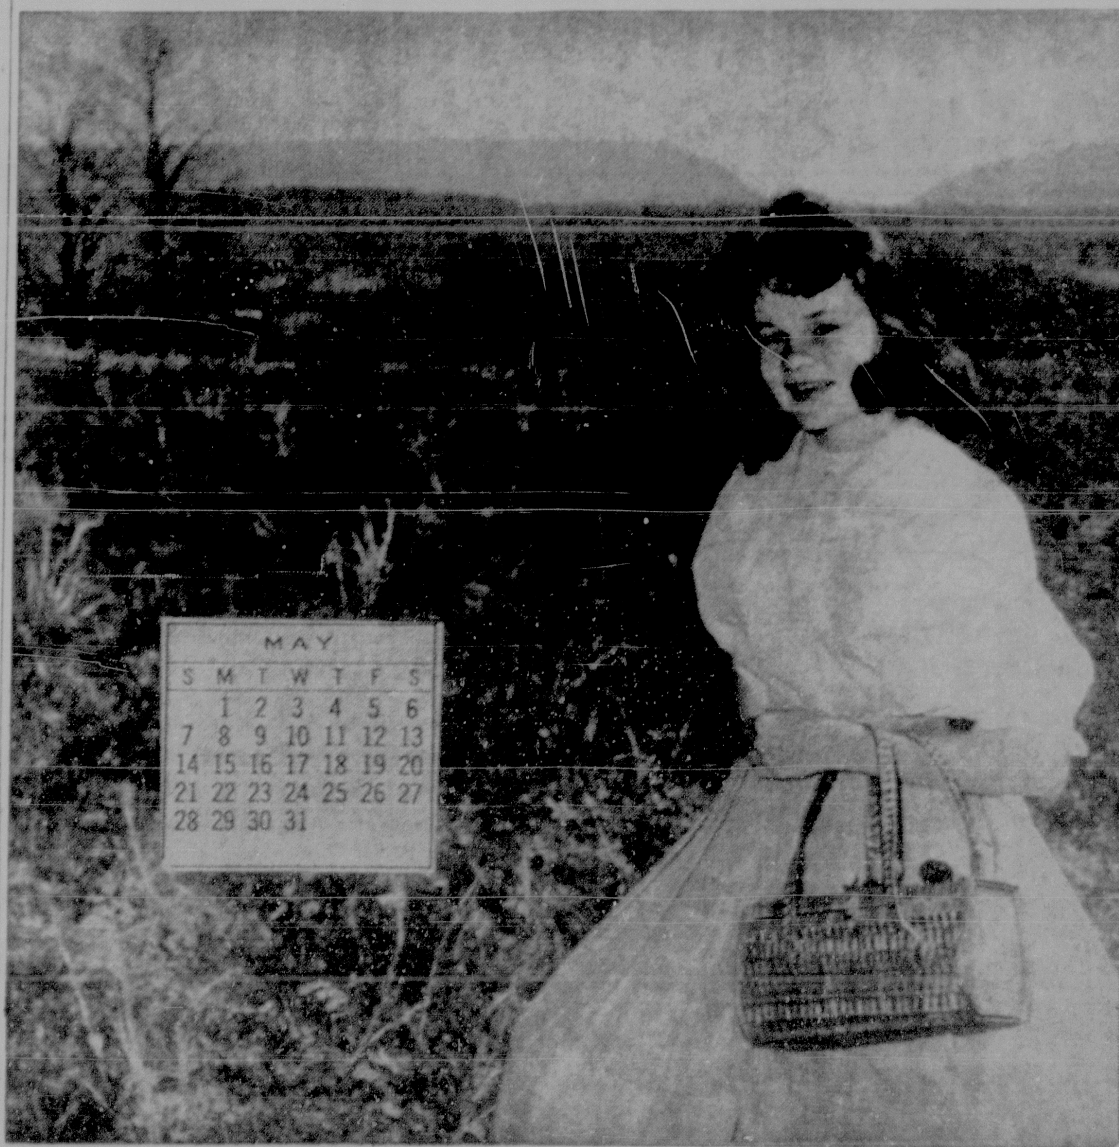

It was the first time either Souvanna or the pro-Communist Pathet Lao had suggested a meeting outside the rebel stronghold of Xieng Khouang on the Central Plain, or in Vang Vieng, the royal military headquarters 45 miles north of Vientiane seized by the Pathet Lao last week.

The country around Ban Namon is rebel-controlled. Military men, however, consider much of the area between Ban Namon and Vang Vieng a no-man's land. Some royal troops have penetrated the region.

There were no reports of strong military action Sunday. The attack at Ban Kuan came Saturday and the government rushed up reinforcements. Should the town fall, the negotiators farther north would be cut off from Vientiane except by helicopter.

But the major military threat was seen along the main north-south road between here and Luang Prabang, the royal capital.

Top government officials were in Luang Prabang for final rites in the cremation of the late king, Sisavang Vong.

No Injuries In Two-Car Accident

STATE Police from the Stroudsburg barracks investigated a two-car accident yesterday at 5:30 a.m. in front of Koehler's Diner on Route 209, west of Stroudsburg. They reported no injuries.

The drivers were identified by the police as Donald M. Singer, 25, Stroudsburg RD 3, and Richard F. Smith, 24, of 560 N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg. Singer told Trooper Stanley Cimochowski that he was attempting to cross the highway to get to Koehler's Diner and was struck on the right front by the U-Drive-it truck driven by Smith. The force of the impact turned over the 1961 convertible driven by Singer.

Damage was estimated to the Singer car at $1,200 and $500 to the vehicle driven by Smith.

BUSHKILL—Fire caused extensive damage to the Country Villa resort here yesterday morning.

The blaze was discovered at 10:20 a.m. by the owner and operator, Hy Friedman who had just returned from Florida preparing for the opening of the 100-year-old Bushkill landmark which formerly was known as the Peters House.

Bushkill firemen answered the call and found the building filled with smoke.

Firemen made a quick investigation and found the source of the fire to be in the cellar near an oil burner which had become overheated, igniting the wooden structure.

Firemen fought the blaze, which had jumped to the partitions of the first floor and stopped it on the second floor.

Marshalls Creek Fire Company was summoned to stand by. They dispatched four trucks and 30 men to the scene of the fire to aid the Bushkill fire-fighters if help was needed.

Lawrence Dickson, Bushkill fire chief, said, "It was a very difficult fire to locate due to the great amount of smoke in the building."

Does your town have a "vitality deficiency"?

Is your town getting a bit worn at spots, a little run-down at the heels in some areas? Is your town one of the reasons why people speak of the "more stabilized" East—which could be a polite way of saying we're running out of steam compared with other parts of the country.

Today is INDUSTRY DAY in Pennsylvania—and a good time to rekindle enthusiasm for our communities, to begin building toward progress and prosperity, to start making Central Eastern Pennsylvania the center of an expanding, booming economy.

Progress and prosperity, however, take planning and doing, and are everybody's job. Success requires maximum effort on a voluntary basis which enlists all community resources, employed and unemployed, young and old, labor and management. It is unreasonable to burden a mere handful of community leaders with the task. All the plans and programs in the world will be of little use unless everyone with a stake in the future stands behind them.

As your electric company, we are intensively striving to reinforce local area community effort. Our area development department, working with state agencies and local civic and business groups, has already earned a good reputation for community improvement in the form of new industries, new jobs and new payrolls. At the same time we are constantly building to keep power always ready for new industry, new business and new people. We will be putting $140 million in the next five years into added power facilities, a vital stimulus to prosperity in itself.

Let's all join in making INDUSTRY DAY, 1961, a memorable one where people are looking up, not down, forward and not back—where people are building a community which is really moving ahead—where industry is expanding and business flourishing.

4 Schools Cited For Fire Hazards

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Fourteen schools in Monroe County are among 1689 Pennsylvania schools cited by the State Department of Labor and Industry for non-compliance with state fire and building regulations—and which must be repaired or face closing down by September 1, a check by the Record Harrisburg Bureau with the department indicated.

"Many of the violations listed against these (1689) schools date back to January, 1959," John F. Dwyer, chief of the Inspection Bureau said.

"The department has given warnings and extensions to almost all of them over the intervening period. During this time, approximately 4000 other schools were also inspected. They were found to be in violation of the law, or they had changes necessary to bring them into compliance with the law. It will not serve public interest to permit schools now in violation to be extended beyond September 1," Dwyer said.

Monroe County schools on the "delinquent" list are as follows: Chestnut Hill Township High School; Elementary, Brodheadville; Polk Township High School; Elementary, Kresgeville; Mount Pocono Elementary, Mount Pocono; Coolbaugh Township High School; Elementary, Tobyhanna; Barrett Township High School; Elementary, Cresco; Tobyhanna Township High School; Elementary, Pocono Pines; Pocono Township High School; Elementary, Tannersville; Jackson Township Elementary, Reeder; Paradise Township Elementary, Swiftwater; East Stroudsburg High School; East Stroudsburg Elementary, East Stroudsburg; High Gymnasium, Union High, East Stroudsburg; Morey Elementary, Stroudsburg.

Law Day Observance

LAW DAY—USA is being observed today throughout Pennsylvania and elsewhere in the United States.

A proclamation calling upon citizens and all public bodies, schools, colleges and private organizations to participate in a law observance was issued yesterday by the burgesses of Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, Mount Pocono and Delaware Water Gap.

The proclamation seeks to stress upon the public that, in the judicial system forms the bulwark of our constitutional structure, it is the people who determine how effective the democratic way of life will be during periods of crisis such as those fought about by Cuba, Laos, Serbia and the Congo.

The observance of Law Day is desirable by all citizens and all professions, as well as all religious, patriotic, business, fraternal and civic organizations, proclamation points out. It is similar to proclamations issued by President Kennedy and Governor Lawrence. It is issued by Edward A. Doran of Stroudsburg, Jesse S. Flory of East Stroudsburg, Gerald Posger of Mount Pocono and Francis R. Drake of Delaware Water Gap.

Providence Man Ailed, Freed

WILLIAM C. Miller, 35, of Providence, R. I., was arrested yesterday at 3:09 a.m. by Assistant Chief of Police John Baujan and Russell Decker and committed to the Monroe County Jail. Miller was attempting to enter rear door of the VFW Home, Stroudsburg, when he was discovered by the two Stroudsburg policemen.

He was released yesterday after paying a fine and cost at hearing before Justice of the Peace John C. F. Foelker. Miller was charged with entering under a Stroudsburg ordinance.

Gillam Presented Highest Award Of State YMCA Of Pennsylvania

THE HIGHEST award of the State YMCA of Pennsylvania, the "Master of Men" Award, was presented Saturday night to Clifford R. Gillam of Buck Hill Falls. The coveted award, given each year at the State YMCA Convention, was this year presented at the Convention just concluded at the Hotel Yorktowne in York.

Gillam was present to receive the citation which is given in recognition of his many years of service to the youth of Pennsylvania through the many YMCA bodies to which he belongs. The citation presented to Gillam read as follows:

"Clifford R. Gillam is a native Pennsylvanian. He was graduated from the Langhorne High School in 1913, the George School in 1916 and Swarthmore College in 1920. During World War I, he served with the Naval Air Corps.

Cites Vocation
"On Dec. 1, 1927 he joined the Buck Hill Falls Co. as assistant to the general manager. He has been a member of the Board of Directors of the company since 1939, manager of the Inn from 1940 to 1943, vice president and general manager of the company from 1943 to 1949 and president and general manager since 1949. In his professional capacity he has served as president of the Pennsylvania Hotels Association and as a director and officer of the American Hotels Association.

"Mr. Gillam is a distinguished YMCA layman. He served as a director of the Monroe County YMCA from 1945 to 1958, and as a director of the Barrett Branch since 1953. He served as building fund campaign chairman in 1945 and as co-chairman in 1953.

"Since its inception in 1945 Mr. Gillam served as a member of the Central East District

Committee of the State YMCA, serving as its chairman from 1947 to 1960. He has been a member of the State Executive Committee since 1946.

Very Active
"His activity with the National Council of the YMCA is significant. He has been a member of the National Council continuously since 1946, a member of the National Board for the same period and a member of the Executive Committee of the National Board from 1952 to 1958.

"In 1956 he served as vice chairman of the Executive Committee. From 1961, Mr. Gillam has served as chairman of the Buildings and Furnishings Services Committee of the National Board.

"Mr. Gillam is being honored for his enduring services to the youth of Pennsylvania through the Pennsylvania Young Men's Christian Association Movement. His efforts on their behalf have been continuous and untiring. He is an outstanding YMCA layman. The YMCA Movement in Pennsylvania is fortunate to be the recipient of his interest and services."

This, the first day of May, is being observed nationally as Law Day--USA. The observance is sponsored by the legal profession with the support of a number of other professions as well as religious, business, fraternal and civic organizations.

Law Day does not afford an opportunity to parade our military might so that a frightened world will cower at our feet. Such is one effect which the Kremlin seeks to achieve each May Day through a gigantic show of arms.

Rather, it is a day when every citizen can give vocal thanks to a kind Providence for our many rich blessings. Not the least of these is the fact we are a free people governed by laws written and enforced by our elected representatives, not by a small minority of totalitarian rulers.

America's darkest days have come about since the rise of Communism throughout the world. We face even darker days in the coming months and years unless we do something to halt the spread of the Communist threat.

As we observe Law Day, it should be pointed out that whether American democracy prevails depends not only upon judges and lawyers—that is, on the proper functioning of the judicial system, which is the keystone of our constitutional structure—but upon all of our people as well.

We would do well to reassess the American way of life, as contrasted to the Communist way, and resolve to do everything in our power to see that our cherished heritages are preserved and strengthened against the evils from within and without. If we do that, Law Day--USA will have a true and beneficial meaning.

Opinions Of Other Editors

'Free' Medicine

Socialized medicine seems so simple and easy, so inexpensive and, above all, "socially just."

It seems that way, that is, to those who haven't bothered to get a true picture.

"Socialized hypochondria" is what they call the results of "free" medicine in New Zealand.

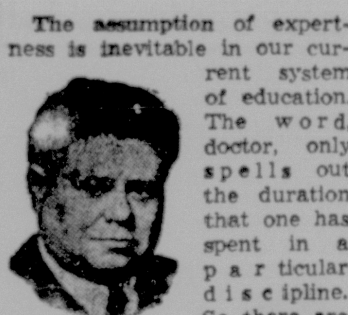

Here are some items, taken from an article in the Industrial News Review, about the government medicine program as it operates in Great Britain:

It has cost four times what its Socialist proponents said it would.

It isn't free. Four-fifths of the costs come from taxes, mostly income taxes. In addition, in a nation where salaries are from 50 to 75 per cent lower than in the U.S., each employee pays $1.50 a week and the employer contributes $1.20 for each of his employees.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Expertness Dangerous

Doctors of Medicine, Doctors of Philosophy, Doctors of Law, etc.

In the 19th Century, where few could read and titles were important, if a man bore such a title as doctor or professor, he was regarded with awe. Today that is not so because there are too many in too many fields and their expertness so minute that often outside their little areas of discipline they are not of great intelligence.

Medical doctors, who are harried men because of the pressure of time and the responsibility for life, sometimes tend to become both pompous and narrow-minded. They revert to the mental attitudes of the witch doctor. Great men are not like that because they realize that anyone can read what they read and that their value is only experience and sensitivity which an individual may or may not possess, depending as much upon his personality as upon his training.

There can be no secrets in any field and the expert needs not only the ability of the technicians but also the imagination of genius. This applies in all fields.

We are so refining education by a system of majors in college training and specialization in post graduate work, that few know a whole subject and the person who is well-read in universal literature and history as he is in his specialty is rare, indeed.

The effect of expertness is sometimes markedly dangerous because it gives emphasis to leadership qualities where they do not exist.

I know a physician whom I respect for his ability and kindness but who is so devoted to his specialty that when he discusses another subject, he sounds like a child. Although this man has had excellent schooling, his concentration on the minuteness of his particular discipline has so completely absorbed him that he has little thought for anything else.

This same illness appears in the so-called career men in the State Department. The Fourth Floor of the State Department where the Deskmen sit is made up of experts, authorities about specialties in which they become so absorbed as to be part of the other country.

For instance, the China experts become so absorbed in Chinese affairs, that they forget that they are Americans; the Cuban experts were so Cuban in their outlook that it is now obvious that their concern was not for the United States but for some political group in Cuba that they favored.

While their expertness could be an advantage if it were framed properly, it has actually become a nuisance. For instance, Portugal and Spain are important to the maintenance of the international position of the United States.

But the doctrinaire Deskmen are anti-colonial and therefore have injected themselves in the question of Angola, just as they have in the destruction of the Dutch, British and French Empires.

Here is a fundamental confusion of policy that has proved to be very costly to the United States but is inevitable when policy is actually made by experts whose task is to gather data not to interpret it.

This error in organization has been ever-present in the CIA where evaluation is made at too low a level. Although the CIA rejects responsibility for the Cuban errors, investigation would show that the CIA man in Cuba was pro-Castro whereas his job was to gather information about Cuba and Castro and transmit it to his superiors for evaluation.

The expert too often suffers from the conceit which comes to one who knows a great deal about a small area—what can be called the specialist of the left-eyebrow, who only too often fails to recognize that his is a part of a problem.

A physician was once very determined about a diagnosis. I knew the patient very well; I asked the physician if he knew him at all.

He had been called in as a specialist but a plumber might have been called in, so far as knowledge of the patient was concerned. Most of the illness was psychosomatic. But the great specialist was sure he could tell by tapping and testing. He was too expert to learn.

The Pennsylvania Story

Hot Potato

By MASON DENISON

Harrisburg — Ever see a Governor on the proverbial hot seat? Well, a look late last week at Mr. Lawrence and you would have seen one really glowing!

The occasion was his "dilemma" over what to do about the near million-dollar hot potato law-makers tossed in his grandparental lap.

For the finger-gnawing front office hierarchy on Capitol Hill, the question was simply: what do we do about the $925,000 increase lawmakers voted themselves last week?

Sole responsibility as to whether Pennsylvania's happily shelling taxpayers should shell even more happily—to the tune of that near million dollars a year—rested exclusively with the Governor.

The lawmakers themselves had done their part—having passed in breath-taking and near-record time the required legislation upping their personal check-writing resources

If he approved the pay increase, he would be going against the predominant expression of disapproval voiced by those Pennsylvanians and newspaper editors who have spoken up on the subject.

If he approved the individual legislator fiscal increase, it would be somewhat paradoxically in the face of his own loudly cried-out "austerity program" under which the administration has been curtailing expenditures.

What West Chester big-wigs meant was the most of the contestants resided in the Poconos only temporarily and officially came from other parts of the state.

Boiling it down, West Chester C of C felt that home-grown products of the Poconos were not dotting the entry lists of Mrs. Miller's pet baby.

Maybe in some instances this is true. But we can cite one name—Carol Willhoite—who was a all-season resident of the area and who copied many honors in the battle for Miss Pennsylvania.

Perhaps West Chester was just being polite in informing Mrs. Miller of its ruling. Probably they wanted to cut down on the number of entries in the Miss Pennsylvania beauty-fest.

But it's a downright shame to toss aside all the extra work Mrs. Miller did since 1958 to promote this area on a state level.

This woman who came to our land from the deep south has worked harder for our benefit than most so-called natives. Daily she has given time and money to create a pageant that does justice not only to our feminine pulchritude but to tub-thumping the area we all so dearly love.

She has secured more than $5,000 for scholarships and civic organizations. Mrs. Miller also set up an experience of long remembrance for those who have participated.

Right now "Ike" has a couple of girls ready for this year's contest. She was told to enter them in a Lehigh Valley (this takes in a lot of territory) phase of the Miss Pennsylvania Contest. Knowing Mrs. Miller she probably will.

We do not know the madness in West Chester Chamber of Commerce's method. But we do know that they have put out to pasture a woman who deserved a better fate than a slipshod ruling dictated.

We hope no one locally had anything to do with this social crime. It's hard to replace people the caliber of Mrs. Miller let alone humiliate her wonderful efforts with such an edict.

Recession keeps us on the jump. We've primed the pump a long, long time. And still we prime and prime the pump. We have the pump, but much less prime.

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

Mrs. Robert Miller of Stroudsburg is perplexed these days. And rightfully so, too.

Mrs. Miller, more commonly known to the folks in the area as "Ike," received a jolt the other day that would tend to shake the composure of the Pocono Mountains most ardent booster.

She learned that the Miss Pocono Mountains Pageant, the stepping stone to Miss Pennsylvania and later the Miss America Contest has been tossed out the window via a decision from West Chester.

It seems the West Chester Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the Miss Pennsylvania show, thought it unwise to let the Poconos in the running because the area doesn't produce enough products for recognition.

What West Chester big-wigs meant was the most of the contestants resided in the Poconos only temporarily and officially came from other parts of the state.

The Allen-Scott Report

Anti-Crime Bill Slowed

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Attorney General Robert Kennedy's fanfare eight-point anti-crime program is getting off to a limping start in Congress.

Unless its prospects improve, it's not likely to get far this year. Significant indicative of that is the emphatic refusal of Rep. Emanuel Celler (D., N.Y.), potent chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, to sponsor one key proposal, and his strong misgivings about another.

These two measures are the core of the attorney general's anti-crime program.

If he is unable to win the approval of Celler and his influential committee, then this legislation is as good as dead. It will never get out of committee, and that means finis.

The proposals open new and far-reaching law enforcement fields.

The one Celler is balking at introducing would prohibit interstate travel for racketeering and other criminal purposes. The second measure, about which Celler has misgivings even though he is a veteran anti-monopoly and crime investigator, would bar meddling with government witnesses and investigations.

Attorney General Kennedy contends this drastic legislation is necessary to break the back of organized crime.

But Celler and Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), another noted investigator whose exposes have long made headlines, assert other crucial factors are in "crime busting."

"The so-called anti-travel bill raises certain grave legal questions," Celler told Kennedy. "While I am fully cognizant of the danger inherent in the activities of organized crime, I am also mindful that in enacting legislation to cripple the underworld, it is essential not to weaken the constitutional rights and privileges not only of the innocent but also of the accused."

Too little too soon—Two particular complaints against these anti-crime proposals are: Their language is so ambiguous and vague the Justice Department has provided very skimpy supporting information about them. To clarify the former and get more on the latter, Representative Celler is slated a series of hearings starting May 17.

Foremost among the witnesses will be Attorney General Kennedy, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, a number of state and local officials, and leaders of the American Bar Association.

"The proposal dealing with interstate travel that further racketeering activities contains language of a rather vague and general nature," Celler told Kennedy. "It is these ambiguities which caused me to proceed with caution, and for that reason hearings will be held to clarify this language."

Illustrative of the merger data submitted on this far-reaching bill is the following one-paragraph Justice Department explanation:

"More and more the bank-rollers and kingpins of the racketeers live luxurious and apparently respectable lives in one state, but return periodically to another state to collect from the rackets they run by remote control. This measure would prohibit interstate travel to advance illegal business activities."

Similarly, the Justice Department had little to say about the drastic proposal prohibiting interference with government witnesses and investigations, as follows:

"If a witness appears at a judicial or congressional investigation, he is protected against threats or harm by criminal statutes. Yet there is no federal law which protects the witness who seeks to cooperate with the Department of Justice or an agency of the federal government against persons cooperating in a government inquiry should not be tolerated."

Senator Kefauver has let Kennedy know he wants to know a lot more about this legislation before agreeing to it.

More Crackdowns—Next target of Senator Kefauver's jolting anti-trust investigation is price-fixing in the export-import business. The veteran Tennessee prober has been given a lot of evidence on price-fixing deals by U.S. and foreign exporters by Representative Emanuel Celler (D., N.Y.), who heads a House anti-monopoly committee. Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges is also actively cooperating with Kefauver.

Rand Dixon, new chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, will soon announce a sweeping reorganization of the agency. Its operations are to be streamlined so attorneys in the field can bring violation cases directly to the Commission's attention.

Under existing procedure, complaints may be reviewed by subordinates several or more times before reaching the commission. As a result, price-fixing and false advertising cases have taken a year or longer to get to the Commission.

Dixon's aim is to slash this time lag to not more than a month. He also proposes to add several hundred attorneys and investigators to the agency's staff.

Just Between Us

By Bobby Westbrook

far there's been no report of frozen radiators on Saturday when the members of the Women's Club and their friends left their annual banquet dance, but a great many of the women were wishing they had worn their winter coats.

However, the weather was only thing chilly about the party. Everything else was fun and friendly and more fun a little gay. Their "floor show" undoubtedly added to the party and they really do have some excellent dancers.

They also had a slightly bearded president when she held the box intended to hold the president's pin and found a can of kidney beans and slightly squashed chocolate or rabbit. Everybody at the table was trying to read a cryptic message into the card. "We'd have been happy to see your term multiplied" was most complimentary.

Turns out not to have been code at all. The president's pin was ordered but hadn't arrived and Lois Payne, wishing weight the empty box, had looked out the only things in the cupboard she didn't want.

It got back to the party: young matrons don't wear evening dress for their dances this year, although there were a lot of scooped, lined and shoestring ties, a lot of shirtwaist dresses, parted up by jewelry and color.

And high point of Mary Kay Taylor's speaking career this winter was speaking to a strange woman. On the men weren't strange—they're wives of New Jersey tars — but they were angry to Mary, who never admitted that she isn't half as excited as when she gave the talk on flowers. Her floral arrangements to our garden club who not only knew Mary but also know flowers.

And if things don't warm up soon maybe the gardeners start sticking some of artificial flowers in the end. Or else remind the herman that this is May.

Miss Gail June Patchen

Soroptimists Name Annual Nursing Scholarship Girl

Gail June Patchen has been selected to receive the full nursing scholarship awarded annually by the Soroptimists to a local graduate.

Gail is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Patchen of 526 Ave. A, Stroudsburg and will be graduating from Stroud Union High School. She is a member of the Junior Historians, the National Honor Society, Tri Hi Y, the Future Nurses Club and took part in the mathematics tournament.

She attended the Ramsey and Clearview elementary schools, and studied in ninth grade at Eastern Pilgrim College, Allentown.

The scholarship project is a major community contribution made by the local Soroptimists and financed through their own projects through the year. The local club was organized in 1952 with 16 members and Mrs. Margaret Clarkson as first president. It now numbers 27 members with Miss Catherine Reimard as president.

It is in the Central district of the North Atlantic Region, and is affiliated with the American Federation of Soroptimists Clubs, organized in 1921, and the Soroptimists International Assn.

The local club in its nursing education program has made it possible for many local girls to become nurses through their full scholarship program. Two of those graduate nurses are now on the staff of the General Hospital in Monroe County.

The scholarships are granted outright to Women's Medical College School of Nursing, Philadelphia, and are for the full three years.

The local club also had another distinction last Summer when its president, Miss Reimard attended the International Convention held in London, England, and attended by representatives from 33 countries, representing the 40,000 Soroptimists.

Fashion Show Featured At Tobyhanna Twp. PTA

Pocono Pines — A fashion show, featuring the clothing made by the girls of the Tobyhanna Two High School, was given at the meeting of the Parent Teachers Assn. in the high school auditorium.

The clothing had been judged in the morning, with the prizes being awarded at night by grades. They included cotton and rayon dresses, sportswear, wool and cotton skirts, cotton blouses, jumpers and tea or work aprons.

To Shirley Hawk went the prize for the best garment in the show; to Linda Chestnut the prize for the best modeling; and again to Shirley Hawk for the garment best completed with accessories.

Winners in grade 7 included: Dolly Gottshall, apron; Brenda Freach, 1, and Marianne Majer, 2 in cotton skirts.

Grade 8: 1st: Linda Woeck, cotton dress; 2. Ronda Woehle, rayon dress; 3. Cindy Flowers, cotton jumper.

Grade 9: 1. Linda Chestnut, wool skirt and tunic; 2. Rosemary Heller, cotton dress; 3. Gladys Stout, adult and child's pajama sets; honorable mention Darlene Dewitsky, cotton dress.

Grade 10: 1. Margaret Altemose, cotton dress; 2. Joan Shimko, rayon dress; 3. Sylvia Tallada, cotton dress;

Grade 11: 1. Diana Onstott, wool jumper; 2. Loretta Blakeslee, wool skirt; 3. Gloria Jean Keiper, cotton dress.

Grade 12: 1. Judy Bonser, wool dress; 2. Wanda Keiper, cotton dress; 3. Mary Keiper, wool suit.

In addition to the prizewinner, clothing was modeled by Mary Jean Ratliff, Kay Custed, Frances Shink, Martha Blakeslee, Diane Avery, Bonnie Stowell, Sharon Wilson, Romayne Franks, Ellen Lenhart, Peggy Hawk, Peggy Van Why, Nancy Wrick, Fleurette Rosenthal, Trudy Quinn, Elaine Lutkoski, Jean Kench, Loyal Ann Argot, Ellen Eckley, Claire Roskott, Maxine Murphy, Rebecca Onstott, Brenda Franks, Pat Keiper, Mary Houser, Doris Meekes, Suzanne Shiner, Joann Driscoll.

Spring Clothing Appeal
Bartonsville — Pastor Robert Zuch of St. John's Lutheran Church, announced the Spring appeal for clothing for Lutheran World Relief. Used clothing in good condition, should be brought to the church or parish house as soon as possible. Blankets are also acceptable.

Mrs. Mae Kerr, Born May 1, 90 Today

Mrs. Mae Kerr, who was born on May 1, 1891, will celebrate her 90th birthday today at her home, 600 Thomas St., Stroudsburg.

Actually the celebration began last week when the cards and gifts from her friends started arriving.

Yesterday she was the guest of honor at a dinner party held at Greenview Guest Farms. Also present were her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kerr, her niece Mrs. Nelson Beers, and her companion, Mrs. Clara Kindrew.

Delegates Report Nat'l Conference

Mrs. Chester Miller and Mrs. Robert R. Hellmann of Stroudsburg represented the local center at the four-day meeting of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America held at the Pittsburgh-Hilton in Pittsburgh last week.

The Pennsylvania affiliates held their meeting preceding the national meeting.

Cass Canfield, national president, was the speaker at a dinner marking the beginning of the Pittsburgh Center's $50,000 fund-raising campaign.

Speaking of the booming population out-racing foreign aid, Canfield said: "I do not suggest that giving birth control help to nations on request is a simple answer to the very complex problems of either economic development or population; but we do maintain that birth control is an essential ingredient of any comprehensive, effective and humane program designed to raise living levels."

A workshop on "The Uncommon Sense of Social Research" featuring doctors from Cleveland, Denver, Chicago, District of Columbia, Chicago and Columbia University.

The scholarships are granted outright to Women's Medical College School of Nursing, Philadelphia, and are for the full three years.

The local club also had another distinction last Summer when its president, Miss Reimard attended the International Convention held in London, England, and attended by representatives from 33 countries, representing the 40,000 Soroptimists.

Local Florist Speaks To 300 Rotary Wives

Mrs. E. Harrison Taylor, Stroudsburg, was the guest speaker at a luncheon meeting for the 300 wives of Rotarians attending the meeting of District 747 Rotary International at Buck Hill Inn on Saturday.

Mrs. Taylor, of Evan's the Florist, spoke on "The Art of Flower Arrangement" demonstrating several arrangements for the home and giving many practical hints on the care of cut flowers.

In her talk before the women, most of them from the New Jersey area, Mrs. Taylor repeated the successes she has had with local audiences including the Monroe County Garden Club, and the Soroptimists.

Mrs. Lawrence Levy, retiring president, presided at the dinner, and was presented with a gift of appreciation from the club by Mrs. Robert Payne. Mrs. Richard Primrose, president-elect, spoke briefly introducing her staff for next year.

Mrs. Levy introduced the guests, including Mrs. Samuel O. Wells III, county president; Mrs. William Hannas, Woman's Club president, who gave the invocation; Mrs. Harold Cleaver, Stroud Community Club president; Mrs. Jo McDowell, senior advisor; and Mrs. Horace Westbrook of the Daily Record. Mrs. McDowell also was presented with a gift from the club.

Juniors Dine, Dance At Year's End

The Junior Woman's Club and their husbands, 135 strong, held its annual banquet on Saturday night at Heddy's Hawaiian Room.

Mrs. Lawrence Levy, retiring president, presided at the dinner, and was presented with a gift of appreciation from the club by Mrs. Robert Payne. Mrs. Richard Primrose, president-elect, spoke briefly introducing her staff for next year.

Mrs. Levy introduced the guests, including Mrs. Samuel O. Wells III, county president; Mrs. William Hannas, Woman's Club president, who gave the invocation; Mrs. Harold Cleaver, Stroud Community Club president; Mrs. Jo McDowell, senior advisor; and Mrs. Horace Westbrook of the Daily Record. Mrs. McDowell also was presented with a gift from the club.

Dancing followed the dinner, with an informal floor show introduced by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith. A history of the dance was illustrated by club members and their husbands: Mr. and Mrs. Lester Katz illustrated the waltz; Mrs. Shirley Briganti, the Charleston; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Redel and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCuskey the fox trot; Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Cohen, the cha cha; and climaxing the program, a lively rendition of The Pony by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Coco.

The big question right now in everyone's mind is when did Elam Gray, of our Wyckoff contract department, begin specializing in magic? Seems he had his table companions mystified at the hotel supplies banquet with what is now known as "The Case of the Missing Potato." Elam didn't eat it . . . of that they're positive. But where did it go? The whole thing is a hot potato to which nobody has an answer.

Still being wobbly legged, I didn't walk around the store very much today. I simply used the telephone, and asked, "What's new in your department?"

Harvey Hay said, "Our Arrow Ban-Lon Knit shirts. Boy, they're beauties—solid colors with a bit of contrasting piping at the neck. They come in white, green, beige, light blue, and brown, S, M, L and XL. And they're only 5.95."

Then Mary Serfass stepped to the telephone, and said, "We also received our new shipment of Arrow summer dress shirts with half sleeves. Regular neck sizes, both button down and spread collars. They come in both white and assorted colors, at 4.25 and 5.00."

As an after thought, Harvey wanted to know if I'd told you about the BVD T shirts with pocket for only 1.00. I said I had . . . on the radio, and he said they're selling like crazy. I can imagine they are . . . they're attractive, easy to care for, and BVD is tops in quality.

Margaret McLaren is always a pleasant visitor, and one with whom I always find seeds of things to talk about . . . so, I was glad when she dropped in the other morning, laden with notes and, as always, bubbling with enthusiasm. Margaret's big project at the moment is a fashion show of the Extension Homemakers' Group on Wednesday, May 10th, at the Methodist Sunday School rooms in Stroudsburg. Everyone is invited, and it's free of charge.

I'm supposed to be commentator of the show, she informs me, because everything to be shown was made from Wyckoff fabrics, and, says Margaret, "it just goes to prove how smartly dressed a family can be at a very moderate cost if the mother sews. As a matter of fact, I often wonder if it pays a woman to go out to work so she can buy her family better apparel. She could probably help them just as much, if not more, by learning to sew at home." What's more, Margaret has facts and figures to prove this.

I have worked with Margaret on some of her previous shows, and they are always most interesting. For this reason, I hope you will all plan to attend . . . on Wednesday afternoon, May 10th, at 1:30. It's FREE!

When I was ill, one of the loveliest cards I received came from Doris Garland, of East Stroudsburg. Miss Garland is an invalid, I understand, who supports herself by means of a wonderful talent . . . she writes poetry, and does delicate and beautiful work with shells. One Christmas I was given a book of her poems, with a cover upon which she had made a lovely shell picture. My get-well card also had a graceful verse, and an equally graceful tree design, with flowers formed of tiny shells painted in pastel colors.

I mentioned this card over the air, and have received a friendly note in which Miss Garland says that her friends have a way of looking at her through rose colored glasses, which is often embarrassing, but that she is fortunate in having so many who give her courage and help her to be a better person. This humility is just one of the reasons, I imagine, why so many people speak in such glowing terms of Doris Garland's gallantry. I hope we can meet soon . . . and I hope those of you who are looking for something entirely unique in little handmade cards or favors will remember her. She's an exceptional person with a tremendous talent.

South Wayne Jointure Votes To Change Into Two Units

NEWFOUNDLAND — Southern Wayne Jointure Saturday night split into two units. Greene-Dreher Townships Directors voted to petition for permission to leave administrative Unit A and to join Wallenpaupack Area School. Sterling Township directors voted against the move.

The action was the result of the complete failure of administration Unit A, including Lake Salem, South Canaan, Greene, Dreher and Sterling Townships to reorganize according to the plan of the Wayne County board. Lake Township held out for a union district in view of its low real estate evaluation and high pupil population. The southern townships held out for a jointure as a more equitable setup. Prior to the roll call vote, which set in motion the local split, a four hour discussion was led by County Superintendent Paul Ryder, Supervising Principal Leland Cramer, and Board President Harold Lee.

Costs, transportation, educational advantages, social and economic aspects were all discussed with a delegation of parents from Sterling joining in.

When the time for the vote came Ryder made a plea for unity in the action.

"I hope you will remember that the social and economic life of the districts is something bigger than the school here," he said.

"May close friendships symbolize the unity that has grown up with the three communities involved. I would hope that whatever decision is made by Greene-Dreher and Sterling Townships that it be a decision that all three can approve and accept."

Fred McLain, Dreher Township, speaking for the two boards approving the move to Wallenpaupack said, "We were reluctant to vote in favor of breaking up the jointure but we felt it was the only thing we could do. We couldn't sacrifice the opportunity. We hope that Sterling will find a good answer to their problem."

The move to Wallenpaupack if approved by the county and state boards will involve only high school pupils. If approved Greene-Dreher secondary students will enter a new $1,800,000 school building at Lake Wallenpaupack in 1963.

Chess Foes To Resume

CHAMPIONSHIP play will resume at the Stroudsburg Chess Club this week after a short intermission. In competition last week, champion Harold N. James defended his crown against James Heatherington and William P. Deering.

In other games, Earl Weiss of Stroudsburg, considered a leading contestant for the crown until beaten by Heatherington, also fell victim to Deering in a fast match.

Deering continued his winning ways by defeating A. J. Vlossak in two straight.

James tied with ex-contender Weiss and then took two decisions from Vlossak.

50 Farms In Monroe File Feed Grain Program Forms

AS OF APRIL 27th, corn and grain sorghum producers on 50 farms in Monroe County had filed forms indicating their intention to participate in the 1961 feed grain program. Donald Reish, Chairman of the Monroe County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced yesterday.

In an effort to increase farm income and to stop the buildup of feed grain supplies, the program provides special payments to corn and grain sorghum producers who agree to divert a portion of the acreage formerly planted to these two crops to an approved conservation use.

While the program is voluntary, corn and grain sorghum producers will not be eligible for price support on any of their 1961 feed grain crops unless they cooperate in the feed grain program.

The chairman reported that 744 acres of corn and 11 acres of grain sorghum on the "participating" farms have been signed up for diversion to conservation uses. The farms have 1959-60 base acreages totaling 1041 acres for corn and 11 acres for grain sorghum. The minimum and maximum diversions for a particular farm are calculated from its 1959-60 base acreage.

Negotiable certificates issued as partial payments for diversion from corn and grain sorghum production have a total value of $18,079.20. Up to half the total payment to be earned on a farm under the feed grain program may be made in advance of the farmer requests it.

Corn and grain sorghum farmers in the county who are interested in the program but who have not yet filed an "intention-to-participate" form are urged to get in touch with the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office no later than May 22, 1961.

$10,000-Plus Suit Filed

A DAMAGE suit in excess of $10,000 has been filed in Carbon County court by a Kunkletown RD 2 couple as a result of a truck-auto crash last April 30 on Route 209 near Trachsville.

Plaintiffs in the action are Alvin and Florence Dreisbach as heirs-in-law of William E. Dreisbach of Kunkletown RD 2. The defendant is Daniel Pensyl of Shamokin.

The defendant is charged with carelessness and negligence in the operation of his truck which was involved in a crash with a car driven by Dreisbach, the plaintiff decedent.

There are two causes of action in each of which a judgment in excess of $5,000 is sought. The suit was filed in the office of Joseph Modrick, county prothonotary.

YOUR BABIES AND BREADWINNERS ARE POLIO'S TARGET!

POLIO can hit your family this summer

Polio is striking most sharply at infants and children too young to go to school—and at their parents, especially young fathers who have failed to get their Salk shots or complete their series of four doses.

Right in your own home town there are islands of population just as vulnerable to crippling polio as before the era of the Salk vaccine. Three-quarters of last year's cases were unvaccinated or not fully vaccinated people.

Polio shots are easy to get, cost very little. If everyone who needs them got at least three shots before next summer, there might be no polio epidemics. You and your neighbors can't feel safe until they go out and get them!

Getting babies, and toddlers, and their parents, vaccinated is important insurance against epidemics and the personal disaster of polio. Don't neglect it. Do it now.

Don't take a chance—take your POLIO shots

WHAT IS A "DOLLAR'S WORTH"?

Nobody knows how small your dollar's buying power would be today if there were no advertising.

But everybody knows you can buy a lot more with a dollar today because of advertising.

Advertising reduces the cost of things you buy because it informs everyone at once of the benefits individual products offer.

Advertising's mass informing results in mass buying which enables mass production. When that happens, you pay less because production and distribution costs per item can be reduced.

This is the reason advertising is so often cited as "one of the strongest forces in maintaining our economy." Because it lowers the prices we pay for things we want and need, we all get more for our dollars and continue raising our standard of living.

It pays to advertise? Yes. It pays everybody.

Goddard Predicts Shortway Will Make Poconos Tops

WHITE HAVEN — This is the year when the vacation industry came into its own in Pennsylvania, Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, state secretary of Forests and Waters told attendees at the recent Pennsylvania Hotels Association Resort Conference at Split Rock Lodge.

"It is certainly the year when the vital role which your own businesses play in our economy have been dramatized," Goddard said.

He continued: "So eminent a group as President Kennedy's Task Force on distressed areas recommended recently a new emphasis on vacation industry as one of the ways we can rejuvenate some of our regions suffering economic distress. There is certainly no question but that some parts of our state have great potential in this respect."

Goddard told the group that Pennsylvanians are a curious lot, but not boosters of the Texas, California or Florida stripe. In a way, he said, this is a good thing because nothing is more obnoxious or wears thin faster than a brag.

"But it seems incredible how little Pennsylvanians themselves — let alone potential out-of-state visitors — get around in this state," he remarked.

"I do not wish to under-emphasize the very substantial size of our vacation industry, but I think you will all agree that we are not realizing all the business we can. I suppose most Pennsylvanians have visited Independence Hall, Valley Forge, Gettysburg — certainly the three most important historical sites in America today — but how many of them have ever explored other areas in Penn's Woods rich in history that easily surpass most other parts of the country in their scenic and historic splendor," Goddard pointed out.

He went on to say that southern Fayette County affords some superb scenery and is served by some excellent parks and is also easily reached by the Turnpike from the major population centers of the East and Midwest.

Ranks Among Best

"Or let's take another example. The Poconos certainly rank among the best known resort areas in eastern America. But how many people have visited the spectacular, almost undeveloped reaches in the mountain forests of north central Pennsylvania? Not many I assure you. But . . . upon completion of the Keystone Shortway this great region will become a new American vacationland," Goddard indicated.

The secretary said the automobile is primarily responsible for the change in vacation habits.

vanians have visited Independence Hall, Valley Forge, Gettysburg — certainly the three most important historical sites in America today — but how many of them have ever explored other areas in Penn's Woods rich in history that easily surpass most other parts of the country in their scenic and historic splendor," Goddard pointed out.

He went on to say that southern Fayette County affords some superb scenery and is served by some excellent parks and is also easily reached by the Turnpike from the major population centers of the East and Midwest.

Young Mounties Stop Palmerton For 3rd Victory

IF STROUD Union's rookies and sophomore players can keep it up, the Mountaineers may be in for their best season in several years.

The Mounties upped their season record to 3-1 Saturday and their Lehigh-Valley mark to 1-1 by whipping Palmerton 4-2 at Gordon Giffels Field.

Only a 9-4 loss to defending champion Northampton last Thursday mars Stroud Union's record and the loss to the Konkrete Kids was helped along by five errors.

Sophomores Henry Ray and Ed Nevil had perfect days at the plate against Palmerton to lead the eight-hit Mountie attack.

Ray banged two doubles in as many appearances and drove in two runs. Nevil had a double and two singles in his trips and drove in one run.

Senior Help

George Kresge, one of two seniors on the club was the only other Mountie with more than one hit. Kresge had a double and single in three appearances and also batted in a run.

Warren Loney won his third game of the season and his first in a relief role. Loney, who has a no-hitter to his credit this year, took over for Mike Strunk in the fifth inning.

The score was tied 2-2 with runners on second and third with one out in the top of the fifth when Loney got the call.

Rinker Dives

With an assist from catcher Gary Rinker, Loney recorded the second out on a squeeze play that backfired. With the count 0-1 on Ed Carazo Palmerton attempted to squeeze but Loney kept the ball away from the plate and Carazo couldn't bunt.

Rinker gloved the wide pitch and dived across the plate, slamming into Larry Meyer, who was trying to score from third. Rinker tagged Meyer out but on the play Tom Krey moved to third.

Carazo bounced back to Loney a pitch later and the threat was over.

Loney at the side down in order in the sixth and seventh. He finished with a clean slate for his two and two-third innings appearance.

First Start

Strunk, getting his first start, allowed six hits and two runs, one of them earned before giving way to Loney.

Palmerton pitcher George Gursky fanned 10 Mounties but Stroud Union managed hits in every inning but the third and scored single runs in the second, fourth, fifth and sixth.

Freshman Glenn Bisbing scored the winning run in the fifth inning.

He walked to start the frame, stole second and came home on Kresge's two out single.

A double by Kresge and single by Nevil in the second inning got the Mounties their first run and Ray's double in the fourth scored Nevil for the second run.

The final run came in the sixth when Nevil doubled and Ray singled.

Face Whitehall

The Mounties next game is Wednesday against Whitehall at Gordon Giffels.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

MONDAY, MAY 1, 1961

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—This is a day to test your ingenuity and cleverness. You can accomplish a great deal if you keep emotions under control and are cheerful about tasks, even added responsibilities.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—This is your month. And if it is refreshed with pleasant and beneficial aspects from your own Venus and other planetary vibrations, a moderate pace in most things will gain best results.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—You will have to exercise your ingenuity and general cleverness if you wish to advance as you can and would like. Don't have many irons in the fire at one time, be consistent.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—It can be a discouraging, painful day and month if you choose right procedure and methods. Hold to sound rules in most things. Allocate your schedules to meet requirements. Don't fret.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—A little gain with contentment a good sign to keep with you now. Every day does not need to be a whirlwind of activity to be a success. Often we need slower achievement and time for reflection.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Advice to Gemini now can be helpful to you. If you find some tasks or subjects continuing, take proper time to study and resolve them. Rushing nervously won't help, but patient care will.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—There is quiet in the air now. Get a brisk start in your schedule, arrange matters systematically and out needless time wherever you can. Responsive period for sincere, conscientious work.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—Beginning of a new week so have the initiative and energy to get a brisk start and keep it up. All only as long as you should. All work and to play, you know! But it is good, too, to keep busy.

Grid Shrine To Canton

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Canton, Ohio, where the National Football League was formed in 1920, Thursday was selected as the site of its Hall of Fame.

Canton won the vote of the league owners at their annual meeting here, beating out Latrobe, Pa.; Green Bay, Wis.; Detroit and Los Angeles.

Selection of players and officials to be honored in the hall and financing of the project will be worked out by a committee from Canton and the NFL.

Track Owner Hurt

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)—James F. Edwards, 50, owner of Waterford track in Newell, W. Va., suffered a broken back when kicked by a horse Thursday.

Edwards was outside the training barn on his farms near Winchester, Va., when he was kicked.

Century Dash Mark Broken But Wind Nullifies Effort

WALNUT, Calif. (AP)—Dennis Johnson of San Jose State College, who has tied the world record in the 100-yard dash three times, sliced a tenth of a second off it Saturday. But it won't count.

The 11.2 mile per hour wind at his back nullified the fleet sprinter's 9.2 second time for record purposes.

Observers at the Mt. San Antonio Relays still shake their heads, though, over Johnson's ability to turn in such a fast time after his left starting block slipped on him.

The block slipped about two inches as the race started. Johnson didn't move out front until after 50 yards.

"I thought I reacted perfectly with the gun," he said, "but that slip cost me. I guess I was third or fourth the first few steps and I didn't get the lead until about halfway."

The world record for the hundred is 9.3 seconds, set by Mel Patton in 1948 and tied by several runners since.

3 Majors, Sergeant Retire At Tobyhanna Ceremonies

THREE MAJORS and a sergeant, whose combined military service totals 86 years, retired this weekend at the Army Signal Corps depot in Tobyhanna.

Receiving their certificate of retirement in formal retreat ceremonies at the depot airfield were: Maj. Thomas S. Hanson, Maj. Edgar L. Shenk, Maj. Charles Cartwright and Sgt. Harry A. Haas.

Each also received a Certificate of Achievement for his work at Tobyhanna. Presentations were made by Depot Commander Col. Lester W. Kale.

Major Shenk, 43, retired after 25 years of service, 17 of them with the Navy. He joined the Naval Reserve from Omaha, Neb., in 1936. When the Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor, he was on a destroyer in the Pacific and helped chase the first enemy submarines from U.S. waters.

After World War II, he switched his allegiance to the Army and the Signal Corps. He had been stationed at the depot since May 1958.

Major Shenk, 43, enlisted in the Virginia National Guard in 1936. Inducted into the Army as a private in 1941, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1942 and served in the European Theater of Operations. He also saw service in Japan from 1949 to 1952, and again in Europe from 1955 to 1957. His Tobyhanna assignment began in January 1958.

PSES Opens Mt. Pocono Office Today

THE STROUDSBURG office of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service will open a sub-office today in the Casino Building, Belmont Ave., Mount Pocono.

The purpose is to provide a convenient job information and referral service to local residents of Mount Pocono, Pocono Summit, Long Pond, Pocono Pines, Tobyhanna, Blakeslee and surrounding areas.

It will also provide this service to a large number of out-of-area persons who travel to the Poconos to seek work with summer resort employers. Many of these people contact three or four employers and if not hired return to their homes. By providing a central point for job information, an applicant can be referred to hotels in need of his particular skill.

No unemployment compensation claims will be taken at Mount Pocono. Persons desiring to file such claims will report, as in the past, to the Stroudsburg office.

Bangor Lodge Cites 75th Anniversary

BANGOR — More than 125 members of Bangor Lodge No. 963, F. and A.M., in company with their guests attended the 75th anniversary breakfast and worship service yesterday morning.

The early morning breakfast was held at the Colonial Hotel, Bangor, with Atty. James H. Meekes, of Easton Lodge as the speaker. Members and guests attended the 11 a.m. worship service in the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church, when the host pastor, the Rev. and Brother John C. Brumbach, preached an inspiring sermon.

Hemstreet, outlined the principles of Free Masonry and intoned the values of brotherhood among the membership, that are essential for a free America and the world at large. He traced the origins of masonry far into the past and ably applied its principles to the American way of life.

He reminded the members that masonry demands the recognition of brotherhood and Christian teaching. He was introduced to the members by Armon M. Williams, who with Wendell Miller is serving as co-chairman for the 75th anniversary of the Bangor Lodge.

Carl Seal, worshipful master of the lodge acted as master of ceremonies and Carl Kressler served as organist for the singing. The blessing prior to the breakfast was offered by the Rev. Mr. Brumbach. Officers and past masters of Bangor Lodge were introduced to those attending.

The Rev. Mr. Brumbach used as his sermon theme, "A Masonic Challenge" in which he utilized word interpretations to identify masonic principles with Christian living. Taking the four words, "I", "WE", "THEY" and "GOD" he extolled the members of the fraternity and all Christians to remember that God is the vital architect in the building of a way of life common to those who live by the plumb line dropped by heavenly grace as a true guide to a worthy life.

Bangor Lodge vocal quartet offered selections in the opening portion of the service. This group was composed of Donald J. Shook, George W. Shook, Jr., Everett Price and William J. Baskett, Jr. They were accompanied by Carl Kressler at the piano.

The Senior Choir of St. John's Church under the direction of Mrs. Helen Becker was heard in an anthem. Flowers were placed in the church by Dr. and Mrs. Floyd M. Hess, II, in memory of their son Phillip Russell and flowers at the speakers table during the breakfast were placed by the lodge in memory of departed members.

York Stock Exchange's Monthly Investment Plan. The latest figures reveal that it is being purchased through 1848 MIP accounts—making it the 11th most popular stock being bought that way.

When you buy through MIP (investing as little as $40 a month or $40 every three months) you're not speculating. You're using a steady and conservative investment method.

Q. I ordered my broker to buy 15 Textron warrants but was told that these warrants are traded on the American Stock exchange only in multiples of 10. Is this true?

A. Yes. The "round lot unit of trading" in Textron warrants is 100. But, if you want to buy some in "odd lots," of less than 100, you must buy 10 or multiples of 10.

This is a somewhat unusual and somewhat complicated situation. But that's the way trading in these warrants is handled.

Dear Abby

Beginning Of The End

Dear Readers: Below is a letter about women's shoes which received more than 100,000 replies in less than one week. And the letters and postcards are still pouring in:

"Dear Abby: I am sick of hearing the beets about pointed shoes for women. The reason we sell so many is because you women must WANT them."

(Signed) SHOE SALESMAN

"Dear Shoe Salesman: Please don't tell me what we women want. We take what we can get. I am convinced that the sack dress, those goofy mile-high hairdos (that no woman can comb herself) and those hideous, pointed-toe shoes were designed by men who hate women and want to make them look as ridiculous as possible. If there is a national shoe manufacturers' association, please give me the address. I would like to send them all the mail I receive from women who protest the new shoe styles. A letter (or postcard) to this column will help—and I head all the rest."

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

The response, in my opinion, is overwhelming evidence that the majority of women DO NOT want the stylish pointed toes and needle heels that have been forced upon them. Thousands of girls and women have written to say they now have corns, bunions and blisters blooming where they never bloomed before. Physicians, podiatrists and chiropodists have written to applaud my campaign for the return of sane footwear for women.

I have heard from a few (very few) women who say they LIKE the pointed shoes. Fine! Let them wear them. But there should be something equally fashionable on the market for those who cannot wear pointed shoes but have bought them out of desperation.

In addition to torturing the human foot, the "stylish" shoes have been responsible for countless accidents when the tiny steel-tipped heel got caught in escalators, shag rugs, crevices and gratings. And the damage to floor surfaces from the stiletto heels can no longer be dismissed as trifling.

I am sending the bale of mail on female shoes to the National Shoe Manufacturers' Association, 342 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y., with the following (and concluding) plea:

"Please do what you can, when you can, gentlemen, to liberate the captive feet of womanhood. It's not fair and it's not fun to hurt from the ground up in the name of fashion."

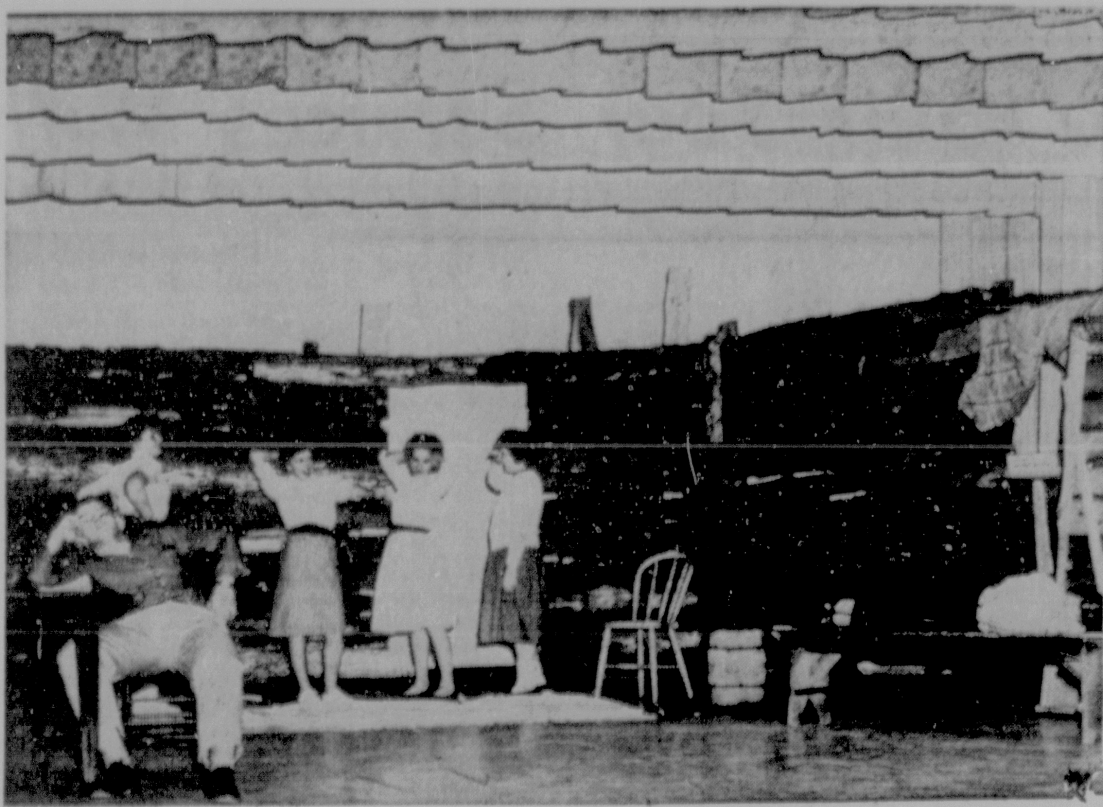

Sincerely,
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Dear Abby: I am a woman who has a pet peeve. It is people who ask me how old I am. I think that is a very personal question and I don't like to answer it. Yet, I find myself getting flustered, and I end up by answering anyway.

How can I get out of telling them without being rude?

OVER FORTY

Dear Over: Smile and say, "If you will forgive me for not answering that question, I will forgive you for asking."

"YA LAZY YOUNG 'UNS. Hit be five-thirty already. Ya overslept again." This is a rehearsal for "Hillybilly Weddin'," the senior play to be held at Pleasant Valley High School in Brodheadsville, Pennsylvania on May 12 and 13 at 8:00 p.m. (Photo—Arnold's Studio)

Russian Challenges Prof. Appel

PROFESSOR John C. Appel, head of the social studies department at East Stroudsburg State College, wrote an article on the United States-Cuban Relations in the year 1898—which was published in an issue of the Hispanic-American Historical Review in 1956.

A Russian historian, Professor Lavritski, has recently "surveyed" the writings in the magazine and has decided that Appel's article, along with others, is proof of Americans' "unwillingness" to admit their "true" objectives.

Commander's Visit

TAIPEI (AP) — Gen. Emmett O'Donnell, U.S. Pacific Air Force commander, arrived Sunday on an unannounced three-day visit to Nationalist China.

He made no statement on arrival and went immediately to a dinner given by President and Madame Chiang Kai-Shek at Chiang's villa in suburban Taipei.
